For a Resident Hunters License.

EDITOR PRESS:—

In the PRESS of Feb'y 2, 1911, I read a communication signed "Citizen and Tax-Payer." Having fished the streams in this section each summer for fifty-five years, and a romed the mountains in search of game for forty-five years, flatter myself that I know a little something about what is best to do to protect both game and fish. In the first place the petition circulated against the proposed "Resident Hunters License," bears a lie upon its face, as it refers to a fishing license. The Fish Commission has nothing to do with this matter, as it is fathered by the game Commission alone. It also recited that the petitioners believed such a law to be unconstitutional. Strange what Websterian intellects they must possess as thirty-five states have now the same law and it is doing good work and has never been declared to be unconstitutional. He, Mr. Taxpayer, selects a few names from the number signing the remonstrances who I admit are very good citizens, but why not publish the entire list and let us know who they are that propose to pass judgment upon this proposed law, suggested by men who have made a life study of the subject. It is a very easy matter to get signers to a petition, no matter what the object may be, as men often sign thoughtlessly and without consideration. He, Mr. Taxpayer, admits the necessity of prevention of forest fires and the destruction of noxious animals and would have the state appropriate for this purpose. Now this is not fair to a large majority of the citizens and tax-payers of the state who never fish or hunt and who do not care a continental if there are any fish in the streams or deer on the mountains. No, rather let us who love the chase and who cast the fly go down in our pockets and pay the enormous sum of one dollar for a whole year to propagate and protect the game. Men who live in the cities and counties where there are no game but who desire to hunt must pay this dollar and it will be used in some eight or ten counties in this section of the state.

ONE WORD AS TO BIRD LIFE.

Anyone fifty years of age living in this mountainious country can remember how, when young, upon awakening in the morning could not go to sleep again for the constant chirping and song of the robin, pewit, wren and other birds too numerous to mention. Neither did they know anything of the many bugs, insects and worms that are now a constant menace to the farmer and fruit grower. At that time the only menace to the farmer was the cut worm and the wire worm, the former only coming to the surface to do its work during the night and the latter constantly doing its work beneath the surface, where the feathered tribe could not reach it. The neglect of care for the birds has led to the present conditions, all brought about by the careless hunter and the failure to provide at all times, for the destruction of noxious animals and the prevention of forest fires, that destroy the eggs and young birds. Now, Mr. Taxpayer, you engage in an iridescent dream if you think for one moment that you can ever get back our forests with all the blessings of restored climate. We cannot do this, but we can get the streams and mountains populated with fish and game, if we go about it in the right way and not show ourselves to be a lot of "cheap skates," unwilling to pay one dollar to accomplish that which we so much desire. You are in error again when you term the proposed law a "Gun Tax." It is nothing of the kind. You may have your home from cellar to garret filled with guns and pay no tax on them. You argue from false premises all the way through the proposition is a Resident Hunters License. It is now up to the hunters to say what legislation they want but one thing you can rest assured of is that if this legislation, or something along the same line, is not put in force, the state will be compelled in order to preserve the game to prohibit any hunting on the state lands. So take your choice, either one dollar and good hunting or one dollar in your jeans and very poor or no hunting.

Basket Ball.

Through a comedy of errors and holding and calling of excessive fouls on our team, Emporium was defeated at Austin last Thursday by the score of 22 to 21. The showing of both teams can be seen from the following score:

First half, Emporium had 5 field goals and three fouls, while Austin had five field goals and seven fouls. Second half, Emporium had three field goals and two fouls, and Austin had no field goals and six fouls. Emporium out-played and out-generaled their opponents, but nevertheless had to succumb to a much weaker team.

Last Saturday night at opera house, Emporium defeated the heretofore invincible team from Weedville by the overwhelming score of 73 to 18. The first half ended with a score of 21 to 12 in favor of Emporium, and these points were made by the hardest kind of work. In the second half, Emporium started their famous passing game and in a few minutes had Weedville up in the air, Emporium making 52 points in this half to 6 for Weedville.

Saturday night, Feb. 11th, another fast game can be expected at the Opera House when Co. H., N. G. P, of Lock Haven will try out our local boys. The Co. H team is supposed to be the strongest team in central part of state, defeating Williamsport, Lock Haven Normal and others. On Weedville floor, this team held Weedville to a score of 22 to 21 which showing is favorable to our own score on the same floor, and as Lock Haven is used to a large floor, this game with the local boys should be close and interesting. Usual prices will be charged.

Maccabee Reception.

The ladies of the Maccabees held a very pleasant reception at their hall on Wednesday evening, February 1st, in honor of Mrs. Sarah Swartz, who left last Friday for Niagara Falls, N. Y., where she will make her future home. Mrs. Swartz has served the Hive faithfully as Lieut Com. for the past eight years. She was presented with a cut glass sugar and creamer and a set of dainty fruit plates, as a remembrance from her associates. Light refreshments were served. A pleasing incident of the evning was the hanging of the State Pennant, recently awarded each Hive in Pennsylvania, by the Supreme Hive. Pennsylvania was in the lead over all other states in adding new members as well as net increase for 1910

W. H. Cramer Heard From.

The PRESS is in receipt of a card from W. H. Cramer from Yuma, Arizona, on which he states that he and family are well and are having a fine time. They expect to leave Yuma in a few days for Pheonix They will be absent until April first.

Born, 1842 MICHAEL C. TULIS. Died, 1911

DEATH'S DOINGS.

TULIS.

MR. MICHAEL C. TULIS, one of the oldest and most respected merchants and citizens of Emporium, died at the family residence, Fifth street, last Friday evening about eleven o'clock. Heart trouble was the cause of his death. Mr. Tulis was born in Rome, Oneida county, N. Y., September 25th, 1842, and was therefore 68 years, five months and eight days of age. Mr. Tulis came to Emporium during the year 1863 and for several years canvassed the counties of northern Pennsylvania and southern New York, visiting the towns and lumber camps periodically, travelling with his pack on his back. By hard labor Mr. Tulis was able to go into business and formed a partnership with Mr. M. T. Hogan and they opened a general store in the Phelps Block, which was situated near the site of the Commercial Hotel. This business block was destroyed by fire during the year 1875 and Messrs. Tulis and Hogan then dissolved partnership, Mr. Tulis again making his regular trips to the surrounding towns and lumber camps. In the year 1882 he again opened business in Emporium, having located on his present site, where he prospered and soon erected the large three story brick block, which is one of the best appointed stores in the county, enjoying a prosperous trade.

Deceased was married to Miss Anna White, a native of Andover, N. Y., in 1869 and to this union two children were born, Messrs. John E., and Robert Emmett, who with the widow survive the husband and father. Deceased was a Democrat politically and was elected a County Commissioner in 1887. He also filled various offices of trust in the borough and has always enjoyed the full confidence and respect of his fellow citizens. Mr. Tulis has always been a devout Catholic and was a member of St. Marks Church at this place It was very largely due to his zeal that the present beautiful church was erected and that Monsignor Meagher, then the tireless priest located at this place, completed the work he labored so hard to accomplish.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral took place on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock, from St. Marks Church, where Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated. The Rt. Rev. Monsignore Meagher, of Ridgway, was Celebrant of the Mass, Rev. Father T. B. Downey, Rector of the Church, was Deacon of the Mass, Rev. Father McAvenue, of Driftwood, was Sub-Deacon of the Mass and Rev. Father Becker, of Port Allegany, was Master of Ceremonies. Messrs. C. Harold Seger and Henry Hout served at the Altar. The Rev. Father Downey preached a truly sympathizing and most impressive sermon, taking as his text: "What doth it profit a man, if he gain the whole world and loose his immortal Soul." The Rev. Father paid a high tribute to the departed and spoke words of cheer and comfort to the bereaved widow and son. A selected choir rendered the music of the Mass in a very impressive manner. Mrs. Mary Wells presided at the organ, Mrs. Josephene Woodley being choir director. The large edifice of St. Mark's was nearly filled with relatives and friends of the deceased. Emporium Council, No. 990, Knights of Columbus, of which order deceased was a member, attended the funeral in a body. The honorary casket bearers were: Hon. B. W. Green, Hon. F. X. Blumle, Messrs. M. T. Hogan, Frank Shives, R. Seger and M. M. Larrabee. The active casket bearers were: Messrs. Robert Green, Charles Seger, James Haley, Henry Auchu, Joseph Kinsler and A. F. Vogt. Interment was made in St. Marks Cemetery. Mr. Bernard Egan was the funeral director, One by one the old land marks are passing away and the familiar voices are forever still in death, but memories, sweet memories, are left for the comfort of the sorrowing ones. The PRESS joins with the community at large in extending its sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

Relatives and friends in attendaunce at the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. Padden, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Padden, Andover, N. Y.; Mr. Herbert Padden, Dunkirk, Y. Y.; Mr. Michael Padden, Cuba, N. Y.; Mr. Timothy Padden, Gowanda, N. Y.; Mr. Michael Lynch, Andover, N. Y.; Mrs. Frank Handy, Belmont, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pardon, Andover, N. Y.; Mr. Hugh McGheen, Mr. Frank McGloin, Mrs. Thos. MCFADDEN.

WILLIAM MCFADDEN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McFadden, of Cameron, died at the home of his parents on Wednsday morning, after a prolonged illness of several months. Deceased was born April 3, 1875 and was 35 years, 10 months and five days of age. The funeral will take place on Friday morning from St. Mark's Church, after the arrival of train No. 3, due here at ten-thirty. Interment will take place in St. Mark's Cemetery. The PRESS extends its sympathy to the bereaved family. Mr. Bernard Egan has charge of the funeral.

Broke Her Arm.

Miss Dorothy Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Foster, had the misfortune to fall near her home last Thursday afternoon, breaking her right arm, between the wrist and elbow. She was playing with some other children and was walking backward and in so doing, she fell over a water plug. She is getting along as well as can be expected.

The Greatest Coming Yet.

The old and popular Hamiliton Hose Company will give their annual ball, concert and reception next Wednesday evening. This old organization, always prompt and active, have caused the tax-payers little expense, they themselves having kept up the annual expense, having received but $100 from the Borough treasury in years. The Company hope every property owner will, at least, purchase one ticket, which only costs $1.00 The popular Keating orchestra will furnish the music. Tell your neighbors and be there early.

Nine Men Killed at Pluto Powder Plant.

Last Monday afternoon the Pluto Powder Company's gelatine mill at Ishpeming, Mich., went up like a flash, killing nine men. Many Emporium men are employed there and our people were greatly concerned until meagre information was received.

Among those killed was Michael O'Connor, formerly of Sinnamahoning, and Justin Jordan, an Italian, who formerly conduced a barber shop at both Emporium and Sinnamahoning. Poor O'Connor leaves a wife and four children. Nothing further can be learned, even from the main office at Buffalo.

Schlecht—Fee.

The many friends of Miss Flora Schlect were very much surprised to hear of her marriage, to Mr. S. J. Fee, of Calgary, Alberta, Canada, which took place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schlecht, last Saturday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, the Rev. R. H. Bent, pastor of the Presyterian Church performed the ceremony. The couple were unattended. Only the immediate family and a few of the most intimate friends were present at this happy occasion. The bride is a young lady of sterling worth, her amiable and sunny disposition has won many friends. She is a graduate of Emporium High School, having graduated in the class of 1904 and up to the present term was a teacher in Emporium Public Schools. Mr. Fee is well known in town and has many friends here, this having formerly been his headquarters for the distribution of fruit and produce for many seasons. A few friends of the bride "got next" to the "doins" and went on watch and guard, so that the sly couple would not escape without the usual send off. After watching all Saturday morning and afternoon, they were finally rewarded for their long vigil and they followed the couple to the junction where they boarded the afternoon flyer for Buffalo. They got all that was coming to them and then some as the conductor of the train helped the good cause and held them back until they were fairly loaded with rice and confetti. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Fee will take up their residence at Calgary, Alberta, Canada. The PRESS joins with the many friends in wishing them a life full of happiness and sunshine.

The Play With an Unprecedented Record, "Paid in Full."

The greatest play of the time and the most popular, will be the attraction at the Emporium Opera House on Monday evening, Feb. 13th, when Eugene Walter's "Paid in Full" will be presented. It is a play to be seen more than once, and it will have a hearty reception in this city. It will be acted by a brilliant New York cast, so that every atom of its tremendously entertaining quality will be brought out to the full. To see this great play acted by a great New York cast is a treat not to be missed by anybody.

Looks Like Going.

It looks very much as though Mr. Joseph Kaye and family would eventually go to the State of Washington, Mr. Kaye having purchased a controlling interest in a very large timber tract containing over 500,000,000 feet of timber, entailing a very large outlay of money. We all hope Mr. Kaye may see his way clear to remain at home and let the younger blood do the hard work. We can't spare such men as Mr. Kaye.

Too Much Water.

A water pipe on the second floor of the M. A. Rockwell Block, over Ludlam's millinery store, went on a rampage last Sunday night, causing a hustle among the laces, etc. Slight damage, except to the walls, and that did not matter for Mrs. Rockwell was just itching to have new paper.

Oyster Supper.

The ladies of the Presbyterian Church will serve an oyster supper in the basement of the Church, on Thursday evening, February 9th, starting at 5:30 o'clock. Supper will be 25 cents. All are invited to attend.

To Those Who Entertain.

We desire to announce to the public that we have on hand a full line of place cards, tally cards and informal dance programmes. Call and examine the stock.

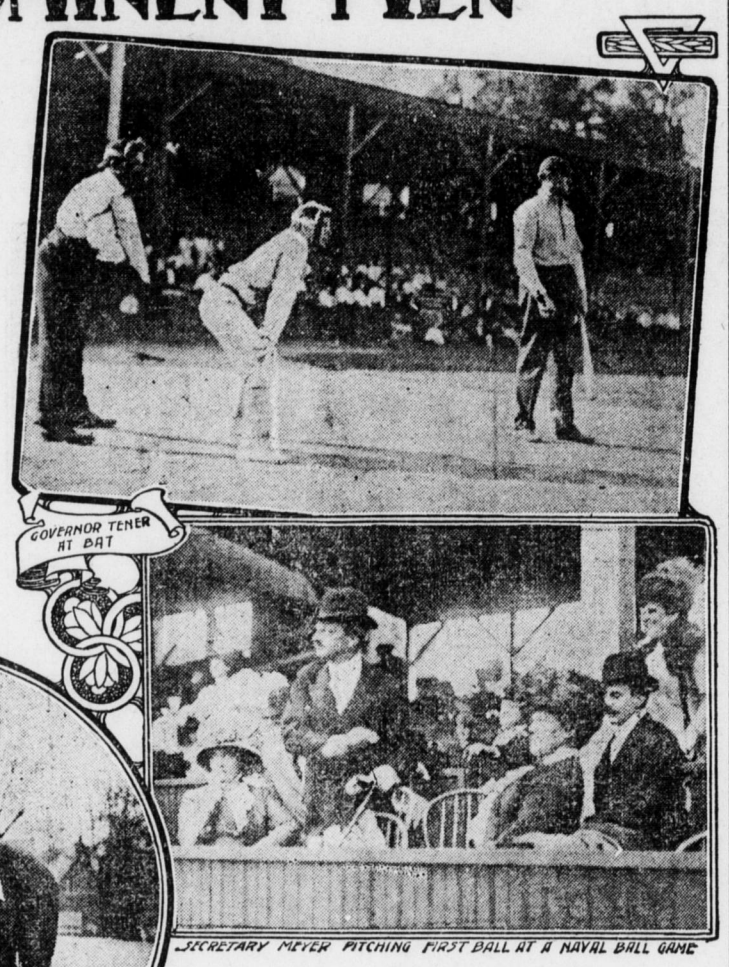
The Hobbies of Prominent Men

IT SEEMS as though almost everybody in America who can afford to—and it does not always require much money—is coming to ride some sort of a hobby. Especially is this tendency noticeable among prominent men in all walks of life. There is, however, cause for rejoicing rather than otherwise in this tendency for a hobby—always supposing it is not ridden to death—as a means of diversion and relaxation, and it is bound to prove distinctly beneficial to the man of affairs whose mind it relieves temporarily from the stress and strain of official, business or professional cares. It is doubly fortunate that many of our celebrities whose work keeps them indoors much of the time have selected hobbies that lure them out into the open.

President Taft, for instance, has three out-door hobbies, golf, motoring and horseback riding. His chief indoor hobby is grand opera as rendered by a talking machine. He has in his "corner" of the Blue Room at the White House one of the finest of the modern sound reproducing instruments and will sit by the hour enjoying the voices of Caruso, his special favorite, Mme. Tetrazzini, and other operatic stars. Another prominent man who delights in twentieth century musical production is Captain Peary of North Pole fame, who amuses himself with a player piano. Representative Nicholas Longworth, who married Alice Roosevelt, is an accomplished violinist.



GOVERNOR TENER AT BAT

JOSEPH W. FOLK ON HORSEBACK

SECRETARY MEYER PITCHING FIRST BALL AT A NAVAL BALL GAME

The hobbies of the vice president of the United States are home—gardening and baseball. Mr. Sherman does not play ball himself, but he is an enthusiastic "fan." There is, however, one prominent man who is a ball player of genuine ability. This is John K. Tener, former congressman from Pennsylvania, who has been very prominent in the public eye since his election as governor of the Keystone state. Mr. Tener was a professional ball player before he went to congress and last year he got up that memorable ball game in which the Democratic congressmen played against the Republican congressmen. Secretary of the Navy Meyer is another baseball enthusiast. Secretary of War Dickinson has a penchant for fine horses, alike to Secretary of State Knox, and is a crack shot with rifle and revolver.

Former Governor Folk of Missouri, who is looming up as a possible Democratic candidate for president in 1912, has horseback riding as a pet pastime and seldom allows the weather or anything else to interfere with his afternoon ride. Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio, another possible nominee for the nation's highest office, confesses an especial weakness for fishing—the fad of Gifford Pinchot, the late Grover Cleveland and many other men who lead a strenuous life. Mr. Justice Hughes, former governor of New York and newest member of the United States Supreme court, spends his vacations in camping and mountain climbing. Justice Harlan and Justice McKenna are famous golf cronies.

Gen. Miles is a lover of fine horses and delights to drive a spanking pair, as does Admiral Dewey. Admiral Schley is a long-distance walker, who is obliged to ask no odds because of his years. The present French ambassador to the United States, Mr. J. J. Jusserand, James R. Garfield, former member of the cabinet, and Col. Theodore Roosevelt are known as having tennis as a fad, although Roosevelt, of course, has or has had so many different fads that no brief article would suffice to catalogue them all. However, the former president attributes much of his energy and intense interest in life to the fact that he not only has plenty of fads to allow for that variety which is the spice of existence but is always attempting something new.

Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, has for some years past had kite flying as a fad and has busied himself with all sorts of interesting experiments with a new type of triangular shaped kite which he has developed, his experiments even including the operation of wireless telegraphy via kites. Emil Berliner, another famous inventor, who contributed to the present day telephone and phonograph, is now dabbling with airships as a pastime. Thomas Edison finds relief from his high pressure work by long automobile tours combined with camping experiences when he literally sleeps in the open.

As almost every newspaper reader knows the chief fad of J. Pierpont Morgan, the financier, is pictures and other art objects, but he is also very fond of yachting. John D. Rockefeller is another well known man whose especial failing is golf. No end of prominent men, including Senator Aldrich, Thomas W. Lawson, Senator La Follette and others indulge in farming as a fad. Book collecting is the hobby of many men in public life and bicycling has long had an especial fascination for Assistant Secretary of State Adee, who goes to Europe every year and devotes some weeks to wheeling on the fine roads of France and other countries.

TREASURE HUNTERS IN MAINE

How the Coast Has Been Dug Over in Hunt for Captain Kidd's Gold

"There are more than a score of spots along the coast of eastern Maine where Captain Kidd is said to have buried his treasure previous to his disastrous voyage to the coast of east Africa," said F. R. Johnson of Wiscasset, Me., according to the Washington Herald.

One of the spots where Capt. Kidd is said to have buried treasure is in Musselridge channel, at a point 500 rods toward the South Thomaston shore from Twobush island, and in the center of a triangle formed by drawing a straight line from White Head to Twobush island, another from Twobush to Owl's Head, and a third back to the starting point at White Head.

"Hundreds of men in boats have dredged and dragged the waters about this spot for a century or longer, and if any one has found wealth from the labor the fact is not circulated widely, through the fishermen and clam diggers continue to labor and hope in spite of many discouragements.

"The second place fixed upon as the burial spot of pirate wealth is on Cod-lead marsh, where Marsh creek joins Penobscot river, six miles inland from its junction with Penobscot bay. This place is about 30 feet above the surface of the salt marsh in its highest place and holds about two acres of land. Though it was originally clad in woods, the anxiety of the treasure seekers has been so great that not only have the trees been cut away and used for fuel by the hunters who have camped on the spot, but the soil, thousands of tons in weight, has been shoveled over many times. It is estimated that enough earth has been handled by the campers of Codlead to build embankments and fill cuts for the grading of a railroad 20 miles in length. In other words, if the hunters for Kidd wealth had hired out with railroad contractors they could have earned $30,000 at regular rates instead of the few rusted and battered old coins which were discovered in the ground at that spot in 1789, and which have led to the wasting of so much human energy."

Bread, "The Staff of Life."

According to modern analysis, as well as to well-founded traditional knowledge, there is an amplitude of potent and strength-giving factors in oats, corn, wheat, rice and other varieties of the graminiferous products to warrant their use as a mainstay and staple of food. Bread has been for centuries recognized in the telling popular phrase as "the staff of life," and popular phrases are usually founded on sound experience, the Philadelphia Telegraph says. Going back to the roots of the language, our word "lord" is derived from the Anglo-Saxon words "loaf-ward—the loaf keeper or dispenser, who was, of course, an important feudal figure. The Roman mob cried "panem et circenses"—for grain and pleasure. Despite the strictures of dyspeptic Carlyle, the Scotch with their oaten cakes and oatmeal porridge are a robust race. The Chinese have for centuries flourished on a fare of rice; the aboriginal Americans had maize as their chief food; the southern Latin people partake mainly of spaghetti and the northern peasantry, eat their bread made of various grains.

And so examples might be multiplied indefinitely to attest the value of cereals in the human economy. At this time cereals are to be obtained in many varied and palatable forms. As manufactured there is an infinite variety of them which might beneficially be turned to account in the daily regimen. The objection may be urged that immediately this is done the new demand will cause a rise in prices, but such reasoning would be fallacious in view of the two-fold fact that the manufacturers of cereals have conducted in their interest a campaign, the feature of which is a fixed price for cereals and that the supply is too ample with our yearly "bumper crops."

Not Afraid of Trade.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, the dowager society leader in New York, does not seem to be alarmed at the threatened invasion of the part of New York in which she lives by tradespeople. She says that she has no intention of giving up her house although the city may cut down her front fence and narrow her lawn to widen the street. Miss Helen Gould lived in the neighborhood, where her father had had his home for a long time after trade had crept in, but she finally had to move.

TEN MILLION PEOPLE IN THE CANADIAN WEST BY 1920

"Toronto Star," Dec. 16th, 1910.

The prediction is made that before 1920 Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia will have ten million people. It is made not by a sanguine Western journal but by that very sober business newspaper, the New York Commercial. It is based upon actual observation, upon the wheat-growing capacity of the Canadian West, and upon the prospects of development following the building of railways. The writer shows how the position of leading wheat market of the world passed from Milwaukee to Minneapolis and thence to Winnipeg. Canada's wheat-growing belt is four times greater than that of the United States, and only five per cent of Canada's western agricultural area is under cultivation. There are 170,000,000 acres of wheat lands which will make these Western Provinces richer, more populous, more dependable for food supplies than the Western States can ever become. The center of food supremacy will change to Canada, and 25 years more will give this country 40,000,000 population west of Ontario.

All these estimates of population are in the nature of guesses, and must not be read too literally. But the enormous area of wheat-growing land, the rapid construction of railways, and the large volume of immigration are facts which must be recognized. They point to the production of an ever-increasing surplus of wheat and other cereals. However rapidly the urban, the industrial and commercial population of Canada may increase, the increase of home consumption is hardly likely to keep pace with that of the production of wheat; for a single acre of wheat will provide for the average annual consumption of four people.

While production in Canada is thus running ahead of consumption at a prodigious rate, consumption in the United States is overtaking production, and the surplus for export is growing smaller year by year. It is true that the limit of actual power to produce wheat is as yet far away. By methods of intensive cultivation, such as prevail in France, the production could be greatly increased. But with the overflowing granary of Canada so close at hand, it seems likely that our neighbors will begin to import from us, turning their own energies more largely to other forms of agriculture.

It must be remembered that while the Northern States resemble Canada in climate and products, the resemblance diminishes as you go southward. The wheat belt gives place to a corn belt, and this again to semi-tropical regions producing cotton, tobacco, cane-sugar, oranges and other tropical fruits.

The man who secures a farm in Western Canada at the present time secures an investment better than the best of bond of any government or bank. It is no unusual thing for a farmer in Western Canada to realize a profit of from $5 to $10 per acre. There are thousands of free homesteads of 160 acres each still to be had, and particulars can be obtained by writing your nearest Canadian government agent.

Ferdinand—She is all the world to me! What would you advise me to do?

IT IS A MISTAKE

Many have the idea that anything will sell if advertised strong enough. This is a great mistake. True, a few sales might be made by advertising an absolutely worthless article but it is only the article that is bought again and again that pays. An example of the big success of a worthy article is the enormous sale that has grown up for Cascarets Candy Cathartic. This wonderful record is the result of great merit successfully made known through persistent advertising and the mouth-to-mouth recommendation given Cascarets by its friends and users.

Like all great successes, trade pirates prey on the unsuspecting public, by marketing fake tablets similar in appearance to Cascarets. Care should always be exercised in purchasing well advertised goods, especially an article that has a national sale like Cascarets. Do not allow a substitute to be palmed off on you.

A Sample Quip.

"Thomas W. Lawson's Thanksgiving proclamation was a very good piece of oratorical writing," said a Boston banker. "Lawson is always full of quips.

"Not long ago I attended the funeral of a millionaire financier—one of those real high financiers' whose low methods Lawson loves to turn the light on.

"I arrived at the funeral a little late. I took a seat beside Lawson and whispered:

"'How far has the service gone?'

"Lawson, nodding towards the clergyman in the pulpit, whispered back: "'Just opened for the defense.'"

Motherly Advice.

Margery was playing school with her dolls. The class in physiology was reciting.

"Now, children," she said, "what are your hands for?"

"To keep clean," was the prompt reply.

"Yes," repeated the little teacher, "hands were given us so we could keep them clean, and 'member, too," she added, "we must keep our feet clean, 'cause there might be an accident."—Metropolitan Magazine.

CHEATED FOR YEARS.
Prejudice Will Cheat Us Often If We Let It.

You will be astonished to find how largely you are influenced in every way by unreasoning prejudice. In many cases you will also find that the prejudice has swindled you, or rather, made you swindle yourself. A case in illustration:

"I have been a constant user of Grape-Nuts for nearly three years," says a correspondent, "and I am happy to say that I am well pleased with the result of the experiment, for such it has been.

"Seeing your advertisement in almost all of the periodicals, for a long time I looked upon it as a hoax. But after years of suffering with gaseous and bitter eructations from my stomach, together with more or less loss of appetite and flesh, I concluded to try Grape-Nuts food for a little time and note the result.

"I found it delicious, and it was not long till I began to experience the beneficial effects. My stomach resumed its normal state, the eructations and bitterness ceased and I have gained all my lost weight back.

"I am so well satisfied with the result that so long as I may live and retain my reason Grape-Nuts shall constitute quite a portion of my daily food."

New "Flexible Hats"

SOME inventive designer of millinery, taking note of the strong points of the oriental turban, and seeking for something new, brought forth the new flexible hat of velvet. The queer but charming "ding-a-ling" hat burst upon New York and promptly captivated it. Naturally it has been followed by any number of soft hats and caps of velvet and other materials suitable for winter.

The "ding-a-ling" hat is a pointed cone of velvet with a rolled up rim next the face. It is guiltless of wire except for a single small shirring wire inserted about the brim edge. It is lined with silk or satin and interlined with rice-net. The crown is made of four conical pieces sewed together except in cases where a manufactured cone of felt or beaver or velvet is steamed into the proper shape over a block. The original hat was trimmed with a single quill, placed flat against the crown at the back. The whole affair is chic if extreme, but becoming to only certain types. It is full of snap and crisp style, but impossible for many wearers.

For those who cannot wear this jaunty (not to mention somewhat rakish) little bit of new millinery any number of new designs have been and are being invented. One of them is shown here. It is a crusher hat of black velvet, the brim lined with white satin and edged with a heavy satin-covered wire—the only wire in the hat. Such a hat, with the brim dented against the crown and ornamented with a smart aigrette or stiff, flat, cockade, may be seen at any of the cafes, completing very handsome toilettes.

Odd effects in trimming are sough for these odd hats, and many of them, for the street, are untrimmed. They need a finishing touch, however, but it must be just a touch. A single skeleton plume, in peculiar colorings, or a long feather from the pheasant tail, or a narrow, gold quill, are favorites and illustrate the character of trimming which is appropriate.

A soft turban of velvet and fur with fur buckle, is partly flexible. There are no wires except in the brim, which is very cleverly draped with velvet. This is a sensible hat for midwinter. With the dark fur crowns one sees combined the most vivid and beautiful colors in velvet, mink and coral, black fox and bright green, plush or broadtail, dark moleskin with cerise or coral velvet and very dark brown furs with cardinal red, have the vigor and warmth of color needed for midwinter.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

DRESSING GOWN.

Flannel or flannelette are materials most suited for making a gown like this if for present wear; it is quite a simple pattern slightly shaped in at waist; the deep collar may be faced with the same or some contrasting color; it is trimmed with a simple braiding pattern that is continued down front.

The fulness of the sleeves is drawn in at the back by a short-braided strap pointed at each end; the wast-band which draws in the fulness is also braided; the pointed ends are hooked over.

Material required: 7 yards 40 inches wide.

Slips of Italian silk with messaline ruffles make the best petticoats for every-day wear.

HAVE REGULAR MENDING DAY

Surprising Results Will Be Effected if a "System" Is Put Into Operation.

There is nothing on earth like system, and nowhere do you realize this more than in matters of dress. The tiny hole in your stocking, that you might have mended in two minutes, grows into an undarnable "run;" the rip under the arm in your new blouse extends alarmingly; nothing that must be mended stays "where it is put."

The remedy for all this is a regular mending day—or a regular mending evening, if you are a business woman. As soon as a garment needs mending—if it be only a button or a hook that must be replaced—put it aside, unless it is so necessary that you must attend to the trouble at once, and when mending day rolls around do the required sewing. You will be surprised to find out how much lighter your work becomes when you can thus catch rents and tears at their start instead of at their disastrous finish.

The other point to remember is always to have your sewing implements where you can get them and in perfect order. Do not wait until the very moment for mending to find that you are out of white thread or that your needles are rusty. When a thing needs repairing, repair it; when it needs replacing, replace it. It might even be a good thing to have a regular "preparation day" to antedate the mending one.

A Few Fads.

Silk and satin flowers, each petal edged with beads, are used on the crown and under the brim of an evening hat.

White coney is an inexpensive fur and much in favor for cloaks, long shoulder scarfs and hats for young girls.

Very effective is the banded trimming of cut steel beads outlined on either edge with two rows of fine jet beads.

Silver on black tulle, steel beads on bleu de nuit (a dark blue) and coral on pink or blue, are some of the beautiful combinations used.

For evening there is a great demand for brocades, crepe de chine and all supple weaves that lack luster, but abound in wonderful colors.

Dainty linen gift handkerchiefs for women have delicately-hued borders. Some of these, with lace-work centers, are highly expensive.

Soups of Different Nations.

There is something characteristic about the dishes of different people, and in none is this more marked than in their soups.

Italian Soup.—Peel and blanch 50 large chestnuts, cover with veal stock, add two tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs, salt, pepper and nutmeg; simmer two hours. Press through a sieve, measure the quantity of soup, and add half the quantity of hot milk. Thicken with the yolk of egg added to a little of the milk to thin before adding. Serve with croutons.

The Germans have a national reputation for soups of all kinds, the following are two culled from a collection of reliable ones:

German Veal Soup.—Put two pounds of the knuckle of veal into three quarts of water (cold), with salt, pepper, a carrot, onion and a clove to season. Simmer for four hours, cool, and skim and strain. Reheat six cups of the stock, add half a cup of cold cooked vermicelli, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, a grating of nutmeg and the yolk of an egg blended with half a cup of milk. Reheat, but do not boil.

German Tomato Soup.—Cut up one pound of the breast of veal, add the bones, one tablespoonful of butter, one onion and carrot cut fine, two cups of tomatoes and a green pepper. Season with pepper, salt and minced parsley; cover with three quarts of cold water, and simmer for three hours, skimming as needed. Skim out the bones, add a teaspoonful of sugar and one cup of cold boiled rice.

French Potato Soup.—Reheat four cupfuls of veal stock. Add ten potatoes, peeled and cut fine, two sliced onions, two stalks of celery, and a tablespoonful of butter. Add four slices of stale bread. Simmer for two hours, rub through a fine sieve, season with salt, pepper and nutmeg, and thicken with a tablespoonful each of flour and butter cooked and mixed with two cups of milk.

IF YOU have dined with contentment, you have dined as well as the Lord Mayor of London.

Soup Making.

Of the making of soups there is no end, and the variety is legion. Anything may be used in the soup pot from "fish flesh to good red herring."

The following are some recipes that are unusual:

Turkey Soup.—Put into a soup kettle the bones and trimmings of a cold roast turkey, with a quarter of a pound of lean ham. Cover with cold water, add a chopped onion, a stalk of celery, a tablespoonful of powdered herbs, and pepper and salt to season. Simmer until the meat is in shreds; strain, reheat, add half a can of corn, and a little of the turkey stuffing.

Ham-Bone Soup.—Cover a ham bone with cold water, add two cupfuls of split peas, and simmer until the peas are thoroughly cooked, adding more water if necessary. Take out the bone, rub through a sieve, reheat, season to taste, and serve with dices of bread, fried.

Beef and Veal Soup.—Cut fine three pounds of lean beef and two pounds of the round of veal. Fry in butter, with a sliced onion, cover with cold water and simmer for three hours. Add one carrot, four cloves, two bayleaves and a stalk of celery. Simmer an hour longer, strain and reheat. Beat the whites of two eggs with half a cupful of cold water; pour into the soup and serve as soon as hot.

Vegetable Soup.—Cut into dice two carrots, a quarter of a small cabbage, half a turnip, half an onion, a potato and two stalks of celery. Fry in butter; add six cupfuls of water or stock, and salt and pepper to season. Simmer for half an hour. Serve very hot with croutons.

Apple Soup.—Cook eight apples soft in as little water as possible. Add sugar to taste and press through a sieve. Flavor with lemon juice and nutmeg, and thicken with a tablespoonful of cornstarch rubbed smooth in a little cold water. When cool, add two cupfuls of cider.

She may leave home at quite an early age if the pursuit she has chosen would make the restrictions of home irksome to her. FIGHTING THE WHITE PLAGUE

Educational Posters by the Thousand to Be Displayed All Over United States.

During the next three months, the bill boards of the United States will display 20,000 educational posters on tuberculosis, according to an announcement made by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

This will conclude the campaign begun a year ago, when the National Bill Posters' associaation donated free space to the tuberculosis cause the Poster Printers' association offered free printing, and nine paper manufacturers gave the paper for the posters. The combined value of these several donations for this three-month campaign is nearly $100,000.

The posters are in six different designs and are all printed in three colors. They are seven feet wide and nine feet high. Already nearly 2,500 of these posters have been hung on the bill boards of 46 different cities, and it is planned to distribute 20,000 more before April 1 in over 400 towns and cities. Any anti-tuberculosis society in the United States may receive free of charge, except for transportation, as many of these posters as can be hung on the boards in its territory. The National association with the tuberculosis committee of the National Billposters and Distributors are conducting the campaign.

The posters show in graphic form how fresh air, good food, and rest cure tuberculosis; how bad air, overwork and closed windows lead to consumption; and how the careless consumptive menaces the health of his family by spitting on the floor.

NURSE TELLS OF SKIN CURES

"I have seen the Cuticura Remedies used with best results during the past twenty years. In my work as a nurse, many skin disease cases came under my observation, and in every instance, I always recommended the Cuticura Remedies as they always gave entire satisfaction. One case in particular was that of a lady friend of mine who, when a child, was afflicted with eczema which covered her face and hands entirely, breaking out at intervals with severer torture. She could not go to school as the disfigurement looked terrible. I told her to get at once a set of Cuticura Remedies. After the use of only one set she was perfectly well.

"A grown lady friend was afflicted with salt rheum in one of her thumbs, and she was cured by the Cuticura Remedies. Still another lady had dry salt rheum in both palms of her hands every fall of the year. They used to be so painful she could scarcely wet her hands until she began to use the Cuticura Remedies which cured her. I have also seen them cure children of ringworm. The children's faces would be all circles and rings around the cheeks, and the neck ,and after treatment with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment they were completely cured. My husband had rheumatism on his arm and I used the Cuticura Ointment. It made his arm as limber and nice, whereas it was quite stiff before I began to apply the Ointment.

"Last May I had an ingrowing toe nail which was very painful, as the side of the nail was edging right down in the side of my toe. I cut the nail out of the cavity it made, and of course applied the Cuticura Ointment to the part affected. It soothed it and in less than ten nights it was all healed through constant use of the Ointment. Ten days ago I had my left hand and wrist burned with boiling lard, and Cuticura Ointment has completely cured them. I have just recommended the Cuticura Remedies to another friend, and she is pleased with the results and is recovering nicely. I will gladly furnish the names of the people referred to above if anybody doubts what I say." (Signed) Mrs. Margaret Hederson, 77 Highland Ave., Malden, Mass., Oct. 1, 1910.

The Oldest Klickitat.

Jake Hunt, the oldest living Klickitat Indian known, lies at death's door at his home adjoining this town east of here. The old Indian is reputed to be more than 100 years of age.

Years ago an Indian village stood where the Hunt family now carries on a general farming business. All that is left of the old settlement is a little church, a totem pole and numerous mounds where the Klickitats lie who could not reach the century mark. Old Jake says that this was the Indians' paradise before the advent of early white settlers.

Jake Hunt is destined not to die a poor Indian. His lands are as rich and productive as any in the valley and command a high price. He is said to have married seven times during his long career, but there will be only a widow and a few children to fall heir to his valuable property.—Husum Correspondence Portland Oregonian.

Back, Then, to the Farm.

Richard Croker, during his visit to New York last month, discussed with a reporter the high cost of living.

"The farmers are all right," said Mr. Croker. "It is the people who insist on living in the towns who find everything too dear. In the towns, you see, the expenses are as bothersome as the children.

"A little boy in a tiny flat looked up from his drum one day and said:

"'Mother, Adam and Eve lived in Paradise. What was it like there?'

"'Like what it is here,' his mother answered, 'when you eight children are all at school.'"

A Girl's Way.

"But," he complained when she had refused him, "you have given me every reason to believe you cared for me."

"I do care for you, George."

"Then why won't you be mine?"

"I want to let your stuck-up mother and sisters understand that I don't consider you good enough for me."

NOTES OF INTEREST.

An extra session of Congress after the 4th of March is more than probable. Congress is pulling in several different directions. Certain Senators and members of the lower House are kicking and balking. The lesson of the last congressional election is unheeded or missunderstood. Such a self-evident proposition as the desirability of reciprocity with Canada is opposed by a Senator from Texas and the Speaker of the House from Illinois and by a recently elected Senator from Massachusetts; and all of them have some backing in Congress. Senator Bailey of Texas and Senator Brown of Nebraska have both given the Senate to understand that they are itching to to filibuster, and it is evident that within the three short weeks remaining the appropriation bills cannot be passed without making concessions to recalcitrant elements in Congress.

The President wants a tariff commission. The Democratic majority that will control the House after March 4th wants no tariff commission, but wants to pass a tariff bill of their own invention and construction, though how they can do it with the Senate and White House in opposition, no man and not even any woman knoweth.

There is prospect of the passage of a homeopathic parcels post bill. Well let us be thankful for small favors. For many years the monarchies of Europe have enjoyed an excellent parcels post, as have also some of the semi-barbaric nations of Asia. In fact, it seems that this blessing is possible in nearly all the despotisms of the Old world. But in our own despotism of interests with representatives in Congress it cannot be had. With furty thousand rural mail carriers with their pockets barely full of letters and newspapers, many of them driving carts or four wheelers, an excellent equip- for carrying packages of eleven pounds each to the farmers and other rural residents, this blessing necessary to csuntry people and necessary to the Postmaster Generer al ig order to enable him to extinguish the postoffice deficit, is not attainable. It is too good for American citizens.

Reciprocity as the next thing to free international trade would be the next best thing in the world. With reciprocity, fleets and armies might be discharged, custom houses abandoned, taxes reduced to one-fifth their present entireity, and living expenses turned back to the minimum cost of our great-grand-father days. The reason why this country is superlatively prosperous to day is because of the unhampered reciprocity between the states. Then why not a little reciprocity with our good northern neighbor? Why? Because of Congress, politics and the devil. How long will Americans be beguiled with the lie that we are a free country when we are governed by a bedlam legislative body, many of the units of which are incapable of looking much beyond the little corners of the nation in which their several districts are situated.

HAVE GOT THE TARIFF BY THE EARS.

Democratic Dillemma Illustrated by Story of the Man Who Caught the Rat.

"You Democrats are going to have a fine time revising the Tariff," remarked Judge Smith, of Iowa, to a group of Democrats in a hotel lobby where members of Congress gather in large numbers every evening.

"Right you are," agreed Representative Legure, of South Carolina. "Our predicament reminds me of an impossible situation in which I found myself when a boy.

"We had a fine line of riding horses on our place, and the barn was infested with rats, which kept the horses nervous. Some one told me to tie a bell around the neck of a rat, and he would frighten away all the other rats and give the horses some peace."

"I had no difficulty catching a rat; it was as easy as capturing the House at the last election. How to get the bell around the rat's neck was quite as perplexing a problem then as is the present problem of how Democrats can get together on a proposition to revise the Tariff."

"After catching the rat I attempted to hold him with one hand while with the other I fastenod the bell around his his neck. Mr. Rat promptly lacerated my hand. A wit then told me to hold the rat by both ears, and I would have no difficulty fastening the bell around his neck. I grabbed the ears all right and held them fast, but there was the bell on the floor; two hands were busy with two small ears, and an audience at the barn door looking at me.

"My situation then may fairly illustrate what we Democrats are up against in the matter of Tariff legislation. We've got the Tariff by the ears, holding fast with two hands. All we need to do is revise it; take the Protection out of it; put it on a Tariff for revenue basis. The country is waiting for us and just as sure as we let go with one hand the other one is going to be bitten and bitten hard, and the Republicans will watch the performance with glee."—Washington Times.

The Greatest of all Broadway Successes, "Paid in Full."

Probably the greatest interest will be manifested by our local patrons of first-class drama, when the great Eugene Walter success, "Paid in Full" appears at the Emporium Opera House on Monday evening, Feb. 13th. The cast will be up to the usual standard of excellence, and a splendid performance of this most popular drama may be anticipated.

Wants Diligent Trustees.

HARRISBURG PA., FEB 4.—In order that he may be informed as to who is really looking after the affairs of State and private institutions in which public funds are appropriated, Governor Tener to-day sent letters to the secretaries of all such institutions asking for a report on the record of attendance of such trustees at the meetings of the boards of the institutions. The Governor evidently desires to consult these records in making appointments to boards.

Backache, Rheumatism, Nervousness.

Mean disordered kidneys. Foley Kidney Pills have helped your neighbors; they will help you. Mrs. Wm. Langgaus, Williamsport, Pa., says, "For five or six years I had kidney trouble and rheumatism and suffered untold agony and used to have nervous spells so bad I could not sleep at night. Foley Kidney Pills were recommended and I began taking them. I used to have very severe backaches and after taking these pills a short time my backache left me, my nervousness disappeared. My rheumatism has passed away and where I used to feel miserable and all played out I now feel as well as I ever did in my life and am fully cured of all my kidney trouble. Sold by Emporium Drug Co.

Every Hunter Must Have License.

Nimrods in State Will be Taxed $1 Each if Walton Bill Passes.

HARRISBURG, PA., FEB. 5.—Under the provisions of a bill prepared by the State Game Commission and which will be into introduced into the House to-morrow night by Representative William D. Walton, of Lawrence county, every hunter in the state will have to pay $1 for a license for the privilege of shooting wild birds or animals. An unnaturalized person will will not be licensed. Mr. Walton says that this legislation will raise $150,000 a year. The money will be paid into the state treasury.

Immediately following the enactment of this law, it will be unlawful for any person living in the state to hunt for wild birds or animals with firearms or any device of any kind propelling a metal pellet or bullet and it will also be illegal except in defense of person or property, to shoot to kill or pursue with intent to take, kill or wound any of the wild birds or animals found in the state without first procuring a license. Under the present law non-resident hunters and unnaturalized foreign-born resident hunters must pay a $10 license before hunting in the state. The Walton bill bars the unnaturalized sportsmen, but does not change the act concerning non-residents.

PRISON FOR OFFENDERS.

A native of the United States or full naturalized person or his son under 21 years of age, who has been a resident of the state 30 days next preceeding his application for a license, shall be entitled to one when he complies with the proposed Walton law. A person convicted of his first offense under the law and not paying the money penalty at once, with costs, shall be imprisoned in the county jail one day for each dollar of the fine, unless he shall give security for the payment within 10 days or carry the case to a higher court.

For the second or any additional offense, the defendent must in addition to the penalty for the first be imprisoned for one day for each dollar of the fine. In case of imprisonment instead of cash payment of the penalty, or if the person fails to pay the costs of prosecution, there shall be a forfeiture to the state of all traps, guns, shooting paraphernalia, boats, decoys or other appliances used in violation of the law and found in his possession at the time of arrest or proved to have been used in violation of the law. These properties shall be either destroyed or sold. For the first offense only the defendant shall be entitled to one day off his imprisonment for each dollar turned into the state treasury out of such sale.

Application for license may be made orally or in writing to the county treasurer. Proof of residence and citizenship must be given. Upon payment of $1 the applicant shall get a resident hunter's license on a form bearing a description of the person to hunt and kill game, birds or wild animals during the year, under the restrictions of existing laws. The certificate will become void at the end of the following December.

FINE FOR EACH OFFENSE.

To do the hunting, as described by the bill, without the license will result in a fine of $20 for each offense, and each day upon which the gun or device is used will be considered a distinct and separate offense. A person found with a gun or device in the fields or forests or on the waters or highways of the state shall be considered to be hunting and must show his license upon demand of any state officer whose duty it is to protect the game and wild birds or to maintain the peace or upon the demand of the person owning or controlling the land on which the hunter is found. The penalty for refusing to comply with this demand will be $25.

Possession of the described gun or device, where it might be used for hunting, or the possession of any dead or living body of one of the birds or animals or any part of such body, by any person in the state shall be prima facia evidence of violation of the law and render the person liable to the penalty. The state officers specified shall have the right to arrest without warrant any person caught in the act of violating the law or in a persuit immediately following the violation, and to seize all guns, shooting paraphernalia, dogs, boats, decoys or other appliances used in violation of any provisions of the act. All wild birds or animals, game or otherwise, found in possesion or under control of the suspected person, shall also be taken. Seized birds and animals not classed as game, shall be subject to the order of the game commission.

Representative Alfred Marvin of Pike county has an amendment to the act of 1901 requiring non-resident hunters, unnaturalized foreign born resident hunters to pay an annual license of $10. At prefent this fee must be paid to the county treasurer, and the Marvin bill allows justices of the peace to issue the license and charge 50 cents for their labors.

Unnaturalized foreign-born residents or sojourners are required, under a bill presented by Representative Oliver E. Leh of Lehigh county, to pay an annual license of $10 for the privilege of fishing in Pennsylvania. Children under 16 years of age of a parent holding a license are entitled to use the license. The certificates are to be issued by county treasurers and they are permitted to retain $2 as their fee. The penalty for fishing without license is $25 or imprisonment for one day for each dollar fine.

Represensative Robert W. Hilton of McKean county would prohibit the killing of deer in Pennsylvania for five years from June 1, 1911. The penalty is a fine of $200 or imprisonment for one day for each dollar of fine.

They All Demand It.

Emporium, Like Every City and Town in the Union, Receives It.

People with kidney ills want to be cured. When one suffers the tortures of an aching back, relief is eagerly sought for. There are many remedies to-day that relieve but do not cure. Here is evidence to prove that Doan's Kidney Pills cure, and the cure is lasting.

Joseph Glover, 257 Mill St., St. Marys, Pa., says: "I cannot speak too highly of Doan's Kidney Pills, for they cured me after other remedies had failed. I suffered severely from pains across the small of my back, caused by the contraction of a cold. Nothing brought relief and when a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply. The contents of the first box made me feel better and as I continued their use, the pains gradually diminished. I used in all three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they effected a permanent cure. I am glad to confirm all I said in my previous endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills, given in September 1907."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents, Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A Buttered Book.

How the Rev. Mr. Johnston, a Scottish minister and the author of numerous books, succeeded in getting one of his works reviewed by Alexander Russel, the distinguished editor of the Scotsman, is told by the writer of "Famous Editors."

A member of Mr. Johnston's congregation was an old and valued servant in Mr. Russel's family. When the preacher published his new book he asked this member to bring it under the notice of her master, with the request to review it in the columns of the Scotsman. Glad to be of service to her master, the good woman lost no time in making her wish known to the celebrated editor and next morning placed "The Gospel Roll" beside his breakfast cup.

When at breakfast Mr. Russel took up the book and remarked, with a merry twinkle in his eye, "Helen, this is an awful dry roll which you have given me this morning."

"Perhaps it is, sir," the servant quickly replied, "but you can butter it weel on both sides."

Next morning an excellent review appeared.

Conkling and Thurman.

Senator Roscoe Conkling was once addressing the senate in an impassioned manner and seemed to direct his remarks to Senator Thurman. At length the latter got irritated.

"Does the senator from New York," he roared, "expect me to answer him every time he turns to me?"

For a moment Mr. Conkling hesitated, and everybody expected a terrific explosion. Then, with an air of exquisite courtesy, he replied:

"When I speak of the law I turn to the senator from Ohio as the Mussulman turns toward Mecca. I turn to him as I do to the English common law as the world's most copious fountain of human jurisprudence."

The usually decorous senate broke into a storm of applause, and the Thurman eye moistened a little. The two statesmen were the best of friends and greatly enjoyed each other's society when "off duty."

A Wetter if Not a Better Man.

A little man in the west of England rushed to the river last summer, swearing loudly that he would drown himself. When he had waded in to the depth of his waist his wife, who had followed him, seized him by the hair, and then, as a local editor described it, she led him back till he reached a place where the water was about two feet deep, where she pulled him over backward and soused him under and pulled his head up again. "Drown yourself (down he went), leaving me to father the brats! (Another plunge.) Get drunk (another souse) and start for the river! (Another dip.) Better use the water instead of rum! (Another dip and shake of the head.) I'll larn ye to leave me a widow!" After sozzling him to her heart's content she led him out a wetter if not a better man and escorted him into the house and closed the door.

The Gordian Knot.

The famous Gordian knot was made of leather taken from some part of the harness belonging to the chariot of Gordius, king of Phrygia. It seems that this knot was so tied that the ends of the leather thong were not visible, hence the difficulty in loosening it. Many must have tried to untie it, for its fame as a "sticker" at last reached the great oracle, which declared that the lucky experimenter should be rewarded by the kingship of Persia. Alexander, trying his hand and meeting with no better success than the others, drew his sword and cut into the knot until he found the ends of it.

Right to the Point.

When the lord chief justice visited Ireland he was often entertained by a hospitable gentleman who had an old butler, who took the privilege of speaking his mind freely. On one occasion the claret did not quite meet the host's approval, so he called the ancient butler and said:

"I told you you were to put the best claret on the table. Is this the best?"

"No, sorr, it is not the best claret," replied the old fellow, "but it's the best ye've got."—London Tit-Bits.

Knew He Was Worshiped.

"In Paris Mr. Whistler and an English painter got into a very turbulent argument about Velasquez at a studio tea," said an artist. "Mr. Whistler at one point in the argument praised himself extravagantly. The Englishman, listening, sneered and said at the end:

"'It's a good thing we can't see ourselves as others see us.'

"'Isn't it, though?' said Mr. Whistler. 'I know in my case I should grow intolerably conceited.'"

Theology and the Thermometer.

A point of theology is raised by Sir Francis Younghusband in "India and Tibet." "An interesting detail," he says, speaking of the religion of the natives, "is that their hell is not hot, but cold. If it were hot the inhabitants of frozen Tibet would all flock there."

Why not secure the agency of an non-board fire insurance company, Frank, and scoop the hog combination that are robbing the people of this town. The insurance combine have the meat trust, and all other trusts, skinned forty ways for Sunday. "What are you going to do about it," as Boss Tweed once said, may go for a time until the owners of property rise up in their might and "swat" tho monster. Mr. Judd and other other local agents, seem to be powerless in the matter.

Attempted Robbery.

Last Friday evening at a late hour, thieves forced an entrance into the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Weiman, on Sixth street, but were not successful in getting any plunder, having been scared away. They forced an entrance into the house through a window in the rear and ransacked several rooms, breaking open trunks and other articles of furniture. Large cakes of mud were found on the floors of the rooms in which the intruders entered.

No Ground to Expect True Reciprocity.

There is nothing in our previous negotiations with Canada which justifies any expectation of concessions. Even the Reciprocity Treaty of 1854, negotiated with those paid in foreign countries, means that our laboring people must suffer. Gov. Kitchen's position is simply that the manufacturer shall make a profit at the expense of the operatives. Do any of our texile workers feel that they are receiving too much for their labor?—Hickory, (N. C.) Times-Mercury.

"Paid in Full."

The wonderful record of this most popular play, by Eugene Walter, will be maintained when it makes its appearance here at Emporium Opera House on Monday evening, Feb. 13th. And the fact that it will be interpreted by a great New York cast, will no doubt be a great inducement for our local theatre patrons to turn out en masse, and that it will repeat its former triumphs is already indicated by the immense number of inquiries for seat reservations in advance.

Popular Courses.

The Spring Term special courses at the Clarion State Normal School proved last season to be immensely popular and helpful to the hundreds of students who attended this institution. For the coming term, they have been greatly expanded. Special classes will be maintained for teachers who need Agriculture, Drawing, Music and School Methods. Write for the bulletin to J. George Becht, Clarion, Pa.

Will be a Nurse.

Miss Katie Kraft, of this place, went to Ridgway on Wednesday afternoon, where she will enter the hospital, and will study to become a nurse. Miss Kraft is a very studious young lady and will probably make good at her chosen profession. We wish her the best of luck.

Sermon to Young Men.

The Rev. M. L. Tate, Rector of Emmanuel church, will deliver a special sermon to young men next Sunday evening. The theme of the sermon will be "The Secret of How to Make Good." Prof. R. H. Edgar has kindly consented to sing a solo. All young men are cordially invited to attend this service.

Don't Forget.

Make sure that you attend the Hamilton Hose dance, concert and reception at the opera house next Wednesday evening, Feb. 15. Remember the date.

Notice to the People of Emporium Borough.

The Greatest of American Plays, "Paid in Full."

The greatest play of the time and the most popular, will be the attraction at the Emporium Opera House on Monday evening, Feb. 13th, when Eugene Walter's "Paid in Fall" with a cast that brings out in highest degree the superbly dramatic qualities, the haman sympathy, the comedy that makes this the most appealing work the stage has seen, "Paid in Full" is a masterpiece. It drives across the footlights and grips with a power that is not once relaxed. It contrins every factor that lifts a play to highest place in public favor. Consider its wonderful record and it becomes plain that everybody likes it. Two years in New York it ran, going without halt through a summer, exceeding in drawing power the musical shows that until then had been the only form of hot weather theatricals Broadway would patronize. At the same time in Chicago in scored an all summer run. Then throughout last season five companies appeared in it, more than ever before had played any piece at the same time, and again this year an equal number are touring the country. With all this is the fact that more persons have seen "Paid in Full" than any other play in a like length of time, which sustains Acton Davies, the eminent dramatic critic of the New York Sun, who wrote:—"'Paid in Full' is the biggest dramatic hit of the age." It is a vital, living story of the hour, depicting with compelling power conditions and persons that help make up the human sum of every American city. It is a play to be seen more than once and it will have a hearty reception in this city. It will be acted by a brilliant New York cast so that every atom of its tremendously entertaining quality will be brought out to the full. To see this great play acted by a great cast is a treat not to be missed by anybody.

Annual Reception.

Thirth eight members and guests attended the annual reception and dance of the Union Friendly Society, which was given at the Theatorium Hall, last Thursday evening. The first part of the evening was devoted to card playing, hearts being the chosen game and this was followed by dancing, which was indulged in until the very small hours of the morning. Miss Dorothy Nelson presided at the piano. A bucket lunch was served during the evening. The merry-makers were given a great surprise and treat by Mr. Robert Green, President of the Theatorium Company, who, at the close of the dancing favored them with a reel of moving pictures. This was indeed a treat and was hertily enjoyed by all. Although the Union Friendly Society have had several joyful occasions, last Thursday's affair was one of the best given by this organization and was undoubtedly the most successful. Guests of the Society present were: Misses Christy MacDonald, Julia Bair, Edna Clark, Elizabeth Crandell, Margaret Murry, Dorothy Nelson, Nina Hertig, Edna Johnson, and Messrs. Rodney Shives, Harold Seger, Harry Anderson, Richard Kuehne, E. B. McKee, Carl Swanson, Mr. Kennedy, of Emporium and J. F. Anderson, of Washington, D. C. Members of the Society present were: Miss Helen Smutz, Ethel Fisher, Hilda Hertig, Alma Hertig, Elsie Kuehne, Hilda Kuehne, Marion Rentz, Belle Husted, Bessie McQuay, Anna Welsh, Messrs. Max Balcom, Arthur Catlin, Allan Randolph, W, G. Frome, W. S. Sterner, John Murray, Robert Weiman, Wallace Powell, Eugene Metz, R. H. Edgar, W. G. Briner and Russel McQuay.

The Cavenys.

The last on the list of entertainments given under the auspices of the Christian Endeavors of the Presbyterian and Baptist churches, will appear at the opera house on Friday evening, Feb. 17th. At this time the Cavenys the famous crayon artists will come before the public. Mrs. Caveny is a fine musician and will entertain the audience with some selections during the evening's performance. Don't fail to attend.

The THIRD DEGREE

A NARRATIVE OF METROPOLITAN LIFE

By CHARLES KLEIN AND ARTHUR HORNBLOW

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY G.W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

Howard Jeffries, banker's son, under the evil influence of Robert Underwood, a fellow-student at Yale, leads a life of dissipation, marries the daughter of a gambler who died in prison, and is disowned by his father. He tries to get work and fails.

"I wish I could help you, old man. As it is, my own salary barely serves to keep me in neckwear. Wall street's great fun, but it doesn't pay much; that is, not unless you play the game yourself."

Howard smiled feebly as he replied:

"Nonsense—I wouldn't accept help of that sort. I'm not reduced to soliciting charity yet. I guess I'd prefer the river to that. But if you hear of anything, keep me in mind."

The athlete made no response. He was apparently lost in thought when suddenly he blurted out:

"Say, Jeffries, you haven't got any money, have you—say, a couple of thousand dollars?"

Howard stared at the questioner as if he doubted his sanity.

"Two thousand dollars!" he gasped. "Do you suppose that I'd be wearing out shoe leather looking for a job, if I had $2,000?"

Coxe looked disappointed as he replied:

"Oh, of course, I understand you haven't it on you, only I thought you might be able to raise it."

"Why do you ask?" inquired Howard, his curiosity aroused.

Coxe looked around to see if any one was listening. Then in a whisper he said:

"It's a cinch. If you had $2,000, you and I could make a snug little fortune. Don't you understand? In my office I get tips. I'm on the inside. I know in advance what the big men are going to do. When they start to move a certain stock up, I'm on the job. Understand? If you had $2,000, I could raise as much, and we'd pool our capital, starting in the business ourselves—on a small scale, of course. If we hit it right we might make a nice income."

Howard's mouth watered. Certainly that was the kind of life he liked best. The feverish excitement of gambling, the close association with rich men, the promise of a luxurious style of living—all this appealed to him strongly. But what was the use? Where could he get $2,000? He couldn't go to his father. He shook his head.

"I'm afraid not, old sport," he said as they left the saloon and he held out his hand to say good-by. "But I'll bear it in mind, and if things improve, I'll look you up. So long!"

Climbing wearily up the dirty stairs of the elevated railroad, he bought a ticket with one of the few nickels remaining in his pocket, and taking a seat in a north-bound train started on his trip back to Harlem.

The day was overcast, rain threatened. A pall of mingled smoke and mist hung over the entire city. From the car window as the train wound its serpentine course in and out the maze of grimy offices, shops and tenements, everything appeared drab, dirty and squalid. New York was seen at its ugliest. Ensconced in a cross-seat, his chin leaning heavily on his hand, Howard gazed dejectedly out of the window. The depressing outlook was in keeping with his own state of mind.

How would the adventure end? Reconciliation with his father was out of the question. Letters sent home remained without response. He wasn't surprised. He knew his pater too well to expect that he would relent so soon. Besides, if the old man was so infernally proud, he'd show him he had some pride, too. He'd drown himself before he'd go down on his knees, whining to be forgiven. His father was dead wrong, anyway. His marriage might have been foolish; Annie might be beneath him socially. She was not educated and her father wasn't any better than he ought to be. She did not talk correctly, her manners left much to be desired, at times he was secretly ashamed of her. But her bringing up was her misfortune, not her fault. The girl herself was straight as a die. She had a heart of gold. She was far more intelligent, far more likely to make him a happy home than some stuck-up, idle society girl who had no thought for anything save money, dress and show. Perhaps if he had been less honorable and not married her, his father would have thought more highly of him. If he'd ruined the girl, no doubt he would have been welcomed home with open arms. Pshaw! He might be a poor, weak fool, but thank God, they couldn't reproach him with that. Annie had been loyal to him throughout. He'd stick to her through thick and thin.

As the train swept round the curve at Fifty-third street and started on its long, straight run up the West side, his mind reverted to Robert Underwood. He had seen his old associate only once since leaving college. He ran across him one day on Fifth avenue. Underwood was coming out of a curio shop. He explained hurriedly that he had left Yale, and when asked about his future plans talked vaguely of going in for art. His matter was frigid and nervous—the attitude of the man who fears he may be approached for a small loan. He was evidently well aware of the change in his old associate's fortunes, and having squeezed all he could out of him, had no further use for him. It was only when he had disappeared that Howard suddenly remembered a loan of $250 which Underwood had never repaid. Some time later Howard learned that he occupied apartments at the exclusive and expensive Astruria, where he was living in great style. He went there determined to see him and demand his money, but the card always came back "not at home."

Underwood had always been a mystery to Howard. He knew him to be an inveterate gambler and a man entirely without principle. No one knew who his family were or where he came from. His source of income, too, was always a puzzle. At college he was always hard up, borrowing right and left and forgetting to pay, yet he always succeeded in living on the fat of the land. His apartments in the Astruria cost a small fortune; he dressed well, drove a smart turnout and entertained lavishly. He was not identified with any particular business or profession. On leaving college he became interested in art. He frequented the important art sales and soon got his name in the newspapers as an authority on art matters. His apartment was literally a museum of European and oriental art. On all sides were paintings by old masters, beautiful rugs, priceless tapestries, rare ceramics, enamels, statuary, antique furniture, bronzes, etc. He passed for a man of wealth, and mothers with marriageable daughters, considering him an eligible young bachelor, hastened to invite him to their homes, none of them conscious of the danger of letting the wolf slip into the lambs' fold.

What a strange power of fascination, mused Howard as the train jogged along, men of Underwood's bold and reckless type wield, especially over women. Their very daring and unscrupulousness seems to render them more attractive. He himself at college had fallen entirely under the man's spell. There was no doubt that he was responsible for all his troubles. Underwood possessed the uncanny gift of being able to bend people to his will. What a fool he had made of him at the university! He had been his evil genius, there was no question of that. But for meeting Underwood he might have applied himself to serious study, left the university with honors and be now a respectable member of the community. He remembered with a smile that it was through Underwood that he had met his wife. Some of the fellows hinted that Underwood had known her more intimately than he had pretended and had only passed her on to him because he was tired of her. He had nailed that as a lie. Annie, he could swear, was as good a girl as ever breathed.

He couldn't explain Underwood's influence over him. He had done with him what he chose. He wondered why he had not tried to resist. The truth was Underwood exercised a strange, subtle power over him. He had the power to make him do everything he wanted him to do, no matter how foolish or unreasonable the request. Every one at college used to talk about it. One night Underwood invited all his classmates to his rooms and made him cut up all kinds of capers. He at first refused, point blank—but Underwood got up and, standing directly in front of him, gazed steadily into his eyes. Again he commanded him to do these ridiculous, degrading things. Howard felt himself weakening. He was suddenly seized with the feeling that he must obey. Amid roars of laughter he recited the entire alphabet standing on one leg, he crowed like a rooster, he hopped like a toad, and he crawled abjectly on his belly like a snake. One of the fellows told him afterward that he had been hypnotized. He had laughed at it then as a good joke, but now he came to think of it, perhaps it was true. Possibly he was a subject. Anyway he was glad to be rid of Underwood and his uncanny influence.

The train stopped with a jerk at his station and Howard rode down in the elevator to the street. Crossing Eighth avenue, he was going straight home when suddenly he halted. The glitter and tempting array of bottles in a corner saloon window tempted him. He suddenly felt that if there was one thing he needed in the world above all others it was another drink. True, he had had more than enough already. But that was Coxe's fault. He had invited him and made him drink. There couldn't be any harm in taking another. He might as well be hanged for a sheep as a lamb. By the time he emerged from the saloon his speech was thick and his step uncertain. A few minutes later he was painfully climbing up the rickety stairs of a cheap-looking flat house. As he reached the top floor a cheerful voice called out:

"Is that you, Howard, dear?"

CHAPTER II.

A young woman hurried out of one of the apartments to greet Howard. She was a vivacious brunette of medium height, intelligent looking, with good features and fine teeth. It was not a doll face, but the face of a woman who had experienced early the hard knocks of the world, yet in whom adversity had not succeeded in wholly subduing a naturally buoyant, amiable disposition. There was determination in the lines above her mouth. It was a face full of character, the face of a woman who by sheer dint of dogged perseverance might accomplish any task she cared to set herself. A smile of welcome gleamed in her eyes as she inquired eagerly:

"Well, dear, anything doing?"

Howard shook his head for all response and a look of disappointment crossed the young wife's face.

"Say, that's tough, ain't it?" she exclaimed. "The janitor was here again for the rent. He says they'll serve us with a dispossess. I told him to chase himself, I was that mad."

Annie's vocabulary was emphatic, rather than choice. Entirely without education, she made no pretense at being what she was not and therein perhaps lay her chief charm. As Howard stooped to kiss her, she said reproachfully:

"You've been drinking again, Howard. You promised me you wouldn't."

The young man made no reply. With an impatient gesture he passed on into the flat and flung himself down in a chair in the dining room. From the adjoining kitchen came a welcome odor of cooking.

"Dinner ready?" he demanded. "I'm devilish hungry."

"Yes, dear, just a minute," replied his wife from the kitchen. "There's some nice Irish stew, just what you like."

The box-like hole where Howard sat awaiting his meal was the largest room in a flat which boasted of "five and bath." There was a bedroom of equally diminutive proportions and a parlor with wall paper so loud that it talked. There was scarcely enough room to swing a cat around. The thin walls were cracked, the rooms were carpetless. Yet it showed the care of a good housekeeper. Floors and windows were clean, the cover on the table spotless. The furnishings were as meager as they were ingenious. With their slender purse they had been able to purchase only the bare necessities—a bed, a chair or two, a dining room table, a few kitchen utensils. When they wanted to sit in the parlor they had to carry a chair from the dining room; when meal times came the chairs had to travel back again. A soap box turned upside down and neatly covered with chintz did duty as a dresser in the bedroom, and with a few photographs and tacks they had managed to impart an aesthetic appearance to the parlor. This place cost the huge sum of $25 a month. It might just as well have cost $100 for all Howard's ability to pay it. The past month's rent was long overdue and the janitor looked more insolent every day. But they did not care. They were young and life was still before them.

Presently Annie came in carrying a steaming dish of stew, which she laid on the table. As she helped Howard to a plate full she said: "So you had no luck again this morning?"

Howard was too busy eating to answer. As he gulped down a huge piece of bread, he growled:

"Nothing, as usual—same old story, nothing doing."

Annie sighed. She had been given this answer so often that it would have surprised her to hear anything else. It meant that their hard hand-to-mouth struggle must go on. She said nothing. What was the use? It would never do to discourage Howard. She tried to make light of it.

"Of course it isn't easy, I quite understand that. Never mind, dear. Something will turn up soon. Where did you go? Whom did you see? Why didn't you let drink alone when you promised me you would?"

"That was Coxe's fault," blurted out Howard, always ready to blame others for his own shortcomings. "You remember Coxe! He was at Yale when I was. A big, fair fellow with blue eyes. He pulled stroke in the 'varsity boat race, you remember?"

"I think I do," replied his wife, indifferently, as she helped him to more stew. "What did he want? What's he doing in New York?"

"He's got a fine place in a broker's office in Wall street. I felt ashamed to let him see me low down like this. He said that I could make a good deal of money if only I had a little capital. He knows everything going on in Wall street. If I went in with him I'd be on Easy street."

"How much would it require?"

"Two thousand dollars."

The young wife gave a sigh as she answered:

"I'm afraid that's a day dream. Only your father could give you such an amount and you wouldn't go to him, would you?"

"Not if we hadn't another crust in the house," snapped Howard savagely. "You don't want me to, do you?" he asked looking up at her quickly.

"No, dear," she answered calmly. "I have certainly no wish that you should humble yourself. At the same time I am not selfish enough to want to stand in the way of your future. Your father and stepmother hate me, I know that. I am the cause of your separation from your folks. No doubt your father would be very willing to help you if you would consent to leave me."

Howard laughed as he replied:

"Well, if that's the price for the $2,000 I guess I'll go without it. I wouldn't give you up for a million times $2,000!"

Annie stretched her hand across the table.

"Really?" she said.

Engineering in Hospitals.

Practically all the important infirmaries and hospitals in England have their own electric generating stations, and the size of the installations would surprise the majority of engineers. The equipment has to be designed with unusual care, owing to the special conditions which prevail in hospital work. Even where a public supply is available, the use of an independent system is justified on account of the security which it gives against failure of current at a critical moment. The installations are used for lighting, heating, ventilating, telephoning and other purposes, and many hospitals have laundries operated electrically. One county asylum has its own private electric railway for conveying supplies from the nearest railway station.

The Duration of Dreams.

Something regarding the duration of dreams can be gathered from this experience of a man who, on sitting down for a dental operation, took gas and dreamed. He saw himself finish his work, go to the club, leave for the station, run for the train and miss it. He returned to his club and reclined on a settee in the library. There he passed a miserable, restless night, getting gradually colder and colder as the fire died down, and with a pain gradually growing about his head and face from the hardness of his couch. Five o'clock in the morning came, and the steward roused him to say that the club must now be closed. The sleeper got up feeling very stiff—to find that the steward was his dentist, and that the night's adventures had lasted exactly 42 seconds.

I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and they were the first remedy that helped me. Were it not for them, I would have had to give up work."

The photographer's lady was very preoccupied showing some samples of work to prospective sitters, when a tall and raw-boned individual, apparently from "the land," stalked solemnly into the studio, and intimated that he would like to know what the "picters" were worth.

"Like that, $3 a dozen," said the photographer's lady, handing him one.

The farmer gazed long and earnestly at the photograph of a very small baby sitting in a wash basin.

"And what would it cost with my clothes on?" he finally asked.

Faint?

Have you weak heart, dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals? Or do you experience pain over the heart, shortness of breath on going up-stairs and the many distressing symptoms which indicate poor circulation and bad blood? A heart tonic, blood and body-builder that has stood the test of over 40 years of cures is

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

The heart becomes regular as clock-work. The red blood corpuscles are increased in number—and the nerves in turn are well fed. The arteries are filled with good rich blood. That is why nervous debility, irritability, fainting spells, disappear and are overcome by this alterative extract of medicinal roots put up by Dr. Pierce without the use of alcohol. Ask your neighbor. Many have been cured of scrofulous conditions, ulcers, "fever-sores," white swellings, etc., by taking Dr. Pierce's Discovery. Just the refreshing and vitalizing tonic needed for excessive tissue waste, in convalescence from fevers or for run-down, anæmic, thin-blooded people. Stick to this safe and sane remedy and refuse all "just as good" kinds offered by the dealer who is looking for a larger profit. Nothing will do you half as much good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

"Two bottles Cured My Rheumatism"

"I have been a sufferer from rheumatism for about two years, and have used many liniments and patent medicines which gave me no relief. IMPORTANT FEATURES OF GOOD VENTILATING SYSTEM

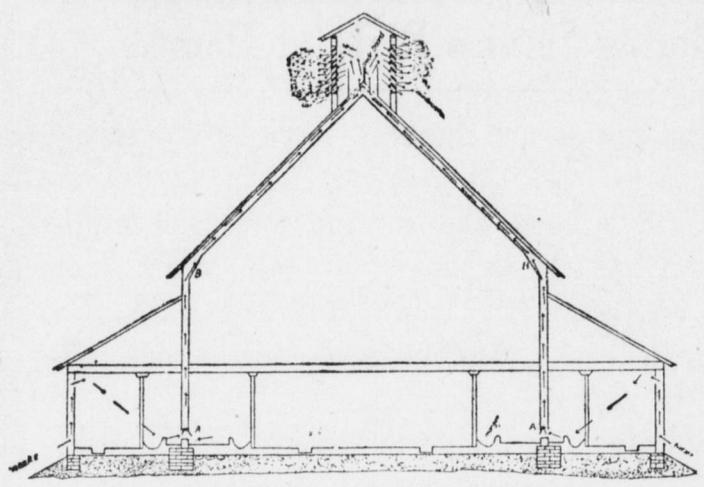
In Order That Our Dairy Products May Rank Higher More Attention Must be Given to Health and Sanitation—One Plan.



Method of Running Ventilator Flues. Fresh Air Is Admitted at the Bottom and Foul Air Taken Out at A and B.

(By J. H. FRANDSON.)

Through mistaken ideas of some writers, many of our farmers have developed the idea that to keep cows healthy and comfortable and to produce sanitary milk it is absolutely necessary to have expensive barns. As a matter of fact many of the dairy barns where sanitation is the primary object are quite inexpensive.

On the other hand if it is to be conveniently arranged to embody the most accepted sanitary features, it is very essential that some attention be given to the plans and specifications of the barn that is to house the dairy herd to the best advantage. Every detail of a new barn should be carefully worked out before actual construction takes place.

The illustration here shown will, it is hoped, give the builder some new ideas as to how the barn can be made more sanitary.

In building a dairy barn, or any other kind of a barn for that matter, the plans must be worked out to suit different conditions and locations. Hardly any two sites would permit exactly the same plan being used.

If wholesome and sanitary milk is to be produced the farmer should realize that the cows must be kept out of the mud as much as possible. Conditions in and around the barn can, in many cases, be greatly improved by draining and grading Draining is not of itself sufficient, as the tramping of the cattle soon puddles the surface, thus practically preventing the water from reaching the tiles below.

The barnyard should have good slope, such as will insure good surface drainage, and should have a good top layer of gravel or cinders. In many places this may involve a great deal of work, but even if the grading cannot all be done in one year arrangements should be made by which at least part of it is done every year.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that we have no better disinfectant than good, old-fashioned sunlight. For this reason in planning our barns much more attention should be paid to the question of securing sufficient light. It is said by authorities on the subject that four square feet of window light should be allowed for each cow in the barn. Long windows reaching well to the ceiling have been found the most satisfactory for the reason that the light coming through them can reach all parts of the barn better than if the short windows are used. It is also of importance to remember that there is no better way of preventing the spread of tuberculosis in our herds than by admitting plenty of sunlight and fresh air into the barn.

The height to ceiling differs somewhat according to different ideas of the builder, but the height should be sufficient to give ample air space in the structure.

The important features of a good system of ventilation are that it provides a constant supply of pure, fresh air, that the fresh air is admitted near the ceiling and that the impure air is taken out near the floor. The fresh cold air should be admitted near the ceiling, so that it may, by contact with the warm air, be tempered before reaching the cows. By forcing the impure air out near the floor less heat is lost and, as is claimed by most authorities, the major part of the impure air is found near the floor where the cows are constantly depositing many of the impurities given off in breathing. A damp stable favors the breeding of disease germs. A good system of ventilation will carry away all extra moisture. No system of ventilation can be successful in a barn where the cracks and crevices in the walls permit cross-currents to interfere with the work of the ventilating flues.

KEEP FROST FROM PIPES

Illustration Shows Excellent Method of Protecting Water Pipes During Severe Weather—How Done.

This diagram illustrates one way of protecting water pipes against frost. In the cut a is the pipe, b a partition through which the pipe runs, c the water tank, d the ground, f a wooden post and g an iron ring. In operation the post, which may be six to eight inches in diameter, is split in the middle, as shown at e. The center is hollowed out slightly in each half, and into this space pipe fits. The iron ring at g holds the halves firmly together, says the Orange Judd Farmer. This protection might, and probably would, in actual practice, continue on through the wall of the building. It could be arranged for by setting the pipe at a greater angle.

Fresh Manure Dangerous to Trees.

When an old orchard is renewed the soil may probably receive a liberal application of well-rotted manure. This should be applied only under the extremities of the branches and worked well into the soil. Fresh manure should not be applied. Ashes may be used in addition to the well-rotted manure, or it may be thrown near the base of the tree to destroy many of the insects there.

IN TANNING SMALL SKINS

Excellent Methods Given for Preparing Hides of Either Muskrat or Rabbit for the Market.

The skins should—first be heated by sprinkling fine salt over the flesh sides—then roll up and allowed to remain for 12 months. If the pickling method be preferred, the skins may be immersed in a strong solution of brine. After being treated with the salt, wash in cold water, and then all the flesh and fat scraped off. Then sew together to form pouches with hair inside and placed in weak wattle bark solution. The wattle bark solution is made by boiling the bark and having the decoction stand for 24 hours, then taken out and skins are left in this bark solution for 24 hours, then taken out and allowed to draw. The strength of the solution is increased by the addition of more oak bark every day for six days. At the last day take out the skins, wash off, and coat the flesh side with dubbing. The skins are then thoroughly worked and stretched and hung up to dry, and the fur cleaned and evenly smoothed.

Another method of curing skins is to treat them with salt and sulphuric acid. Over two quarts of wheat bran pour six quarts of boiling water, then strain. Make an equal quantity of strong brine. Mix brine and bran together and to each gallon of the mixture add one ounce of sulphuric acid. Then immerse the skins, stirring them occasionally until tanned. Rabbit skins will tan in 30 minutes in this solution, when tanned, wash the skins in cold water, and hang in cellar to become partly dry. When skins are nearly dry, being moist to the hand, work and stretch until they become soft and pliable. The skin side should then be thoroughly rubbed with prepared chalk.

Grooming Improves Animal.

Grooming the horse every day not only cleans the skin, but prevents parasitic disease as well. The modern horse is an artificial product, living under artificial conditions. In order to do his best he needs the care of man.

The Modest Model.

The late Julia Ward Howe, though a woman of very good appearance, was extremely modest.

"She once posed for me," said a Boston painter the other day. "But she hesitated a long time before consenting. To urge her on I said:

"'Don't be afraid. I'll do you justice, madam.'

"'Ah, she answered, 'it isn't justice I ask for at your hands; it's mercy.'"

Not Just Off the Shelf.

Little Marget has the childist trait of curiosity, especially in regard to the age of her elders.

"How old do you think I am, dear?" counter-questioned the spinster aunt to whom the child had put the impertinent query. The little girl considered earnestly before replying:

"Well, I don't know, Auntie Alice, but you don't look new!"

INSIDE HISTORY.

Some Self-Explanatory Letters.

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 7, '11.

Dr. E. H. Pratt,
Suite 1202, 100 State St.,
Chicago, Illinois.

My Dear Doctor:

"Owing to some disagreement with ——— magazine several years ago they have become quite vituperative, and of late have publicly charged me with falsehoods in my statements that we have genuine testimonial letters.

"It has been our rule to refrain from publishing the names either of laymen or physicians who have written to us in a complimentary way, and we have declined to accede to the demand of attorneys that we turn these letters over to them.

"I am asking a few men whom I deem to be friends to permit me to reproduce some of their letters over their signatures in order to refute the falsehoods.

"We have hundreds of letters from physicians, but I esteem the one that you wrote to me in 1906 among the very best, particularly in view of the fact that it recognizes the work I have been trying to do partly through the little book, 'The Road to Wellville.'

"I do not sell or attempt to sell the higher thought which is more important than the kind of food, but I have taken considerable pains to extend to humanity such facts as may have come to me on this subject.

"In order that your mind may be refreshed I am herewith enclosing a copy of your good letter, also a copy of the little book, and if you will give me the privilege of printing this over your signature I will accompany the printing with an explanation as to why you permitted its use in publication in order to refute falsehoods, and under that method of treatment I feel, so far as I know, there would be no breach of the code of ethics.

"I trust this winter weather is finding you well, contented and enjoying the fruits that are yours by right.

"With all best wishes, I am,"

Yours very truly,

C. W. POST.

Dr. Pratt, who is one of the most prominent and skillful surgeons in America, very kindly granted our request in the cause of truth and justice.

Chicago, Aug. 31, 1906.

Mr. C. W. Post,
Battle Creek, Mich.

My Dear Sir:

"I write to express my personal appreciation of one of your business methods, that of accompanying each package of your Grape-Nuts production with that little booklet "The Road to Wellville," A more appropriate, clear headed and effective presentation of health-giving auto-suggestions could scarcely be penned.

"Grape-Nuts is a good food in itself, but the food contained in this little article is still better stuff. I commend the practice because I know that the greed and strenuousness, the consequent graft and other types of thievery and malicious mischief generally can never be cured by legislative action.

"The only hope for the betterment of the race rests in individual soul culture.

"In taking a step in this direction, your process has been so original and unique that it must set a pace for other concerns until finally the whole country gets flavored with genuine, practical Christianity.

"I shall do all that lies in my power to aid in the appreciation of Grape-Nuts, not so much for the sake of the food itself as for the accompanying suggestions.

"Visiting Battle Creek the other day with a friend, Dr. Kelly of Evanston, Illinois, while I was consulting with Mr. Gregory, my friend, visited your factories and came away greatly amazed, not only at the luxurious furnishings of the offices generally and the general equipment of the place, but with the sweet spirit of courtesy and kindness that seemed to fill the air with a spiritual ozone that was good to breathe.

"The principles expressed in the little booklet, 'The Road to Wellville,' I well know are practical and they work in business of all kinds, including sanitariums, as will be fairly tested before time is done.

"I know you will not regard this letter of appreciation as an intruding one. It is simply the salutation of good fellowship to you from a man who, although he has never seen you, feels drawn to you by the kinship of thought.

"The only thing that makes a man live forever in the hearts of his countrymen and his race is the good that he does. Your position in this respect is an enviable one and I wish to extend my congratulations."

Yours respectfully,

E. H. PRATT.

HITS SCHOOL BOOK COMPANIES.

Governor Marshall Castigates Book Publishers Who Attempted to Foist County Uniformity on Graded Schools.

Indianapolis. — Governor Marshall, in his message to the Indiana general assembly went after the big school book companies that sought two years ago, to foist county uniformity of text books upon the schools of Indiana.

In his message, Governor Marshall says:

"Two years ago the representatives of foreign school book publishing houses opened up a lobby in Indianapolis pretending that the presence of their representatives here was exclusively philanthropic and that they had come into Indiana to show us how defective our school system was. I always suspect that philanthropy which results in large pecuniary gain to the philanthropist."

Governor Marshall's stand will deter school book publishers from attempting to jam a county uniformity measure through the legislature.

Uniformity Bill In Ohio.

Columbus.—Senator Yount has introduced a bill in the senate providing for county uniformity of school text books. It applies only to the elementary schools in the rural districts and villages. Because cities are left out farmers and educators are opposing the measure. Their argument is that "If uniformity is bad for the cities it is just as bad for the country," and that it would cost millions to install county uniformity.

The Yount measure would give county commissioners and probate judges power to appoint the board that selected books. The matter of selection would be taken wholly from the hands of boards of education and school superintendents.

Senator Yount's argument for the measure is that it would save money to the people while the opponents insist that it would throw the school book question into politics; that it is against home rule; and that it would result in a county board taking complete charge of all school affairs, including hiring of teachers and control of the physical property of a school district. A similar measure was defeated in the legislature last winter.

Habit Grows.

"I hate to see a little country buying its first battleship."

"Why?"

"Reminds me of a boy taking his first smoke."

For over fifty years Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and other painful ailments have been cured by Hamlins Wizard Oil. It is a good honest remedy and you will not regret having a bottle ready for use.

The main difference between a professional man and a tradesman is that a great many times the tradesman can buy and sell the professor.

Constipation causes and seriously aggravates many diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pellets. Tiny sugar-coated granules.

Some turn their backs on ordinary principles to gaze at heavenly prospects.

Woman's Danger Periods Made Safe

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Here is proof:

Natick, Mass.,—"I cannot express what I went through during the Change of Life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold. I had creepy sensations and could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I had a tumor.

"I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it has worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish this letter."—Mrs. Nathan B. Greaton, 51 No. Main St., Natick, Mass.

ANOTHER SIMILAR CASE.

Cornwallville, N. Y.—"I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for some time for Change of Life, nervousness, and a fibroid growth.

"Two doctors advised me to go to the hospital, but one day while I was away visiting, I met a woman who told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and I know it helped me wonderfully. I am very thankful that I was told to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Wm. Boughton, Cornwallville, N. Y., Greene Co.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as those above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.
